
MOREAU KUSUNOKI IS SEARCHING FOR GRAPHICS/PRESS/PUBLISHING SUPPORT

POST DESCRIPTION

MOREAU KUSUNOKI is a French-Japanese architecture and design agency based in Paris. The office was established in 2011 and has since then carved itself a particular and recognisable place in the European and international architectural stages. Working in varied programmes and scales, yet exhibiting a particular interest in projects of cultural character, the office made a name for itself through their winning entry for the Guggenheim Helsinki in Finland in 2015. This has been followed by several built and on-going major projects: Sciences Po's new university campus in the centre of Paris, the National Lighthouse Museum in Brest, and the Powerhouse Parramatta Museum in Sydney, Australia.

As part of its expanding public presence, the office is looking to add devoted support for the upholding and developing of the graphic identity of the office, the management of press relations, and the development of published projects. The position is based in Paris, yet occasional travel is to be expected. The person sought will be required to collaborate with the architects of the agency on the follow-up of various on-going or delivered projects, as well as to independently manage and drive the daily and long-term editorial needs for the office.

MISSIONS

- Proactively and reactively administering the editorial and communication tasks of an architectural practice
- Producing and managing a wide gamme of communication materials: portfolios, press releases, press requests, website content, etc
- Curating, producing and supervising graphic content, including non-technical 2D drawings
- Establishing and sustaining relationships in the concerned sphere (potential clients, channels of communication and publishing)
- Working on practice-related or project-related publications, including in print
- Handling on-demand editorial tasks, all while exercising a holistical approach and control of the global image of the practice

PROFILE

MOREAU KUSUNOKI is looking for an self-driven and versatile profile that can bring added value to the communication development of the practice. Key qualities sought after are:

- Knowledge and passion for design and architecture
- Understanding of the international design market
- Pronounced taste and sensibility for graphic design and visual communication and curation
- Ability to write and edit architecture/design-related texts
- Ease at compiling and editing graphic documents - portfolios, booklets, press releases etc.
- Independent and self-driven attitude to work
- Software: InDesign, Photoshop, Illustrator, AutoCAD
- Excellent written and verbal communication skills
- Fluency in English and French required; knowledge of German is an asset
- Past or current architectural experience/education is an asset.
